Credits: This lesson was created by Shawna Audet from the Flying Cat Academy. The drills used in this lesson and the scope and sequence that it follows were created by the Dyslexia Training Institute, which runs courses out of the University of San Diego. The multisensory drill for teaching a new phoneme comes from Dr. Vincent Goetry. The pictures used in the connected text sections come from pixabay.com.

Section 2: New Content and Reading

Syllable Card Drill – 2 minutes

Equipment: index cards

In the last lesson, you stopped doing the blending drill and started doing the syllable card drill. The reason for this change is that the student is ready to build two syllable words.

Instructions

1. Put all syllables on index cards. Place the cards in two columns so that all the “Syllable #1” cards are in the first column (gum, milk, hum, hot, hat). Place all the “Syllable #2” cards in the second column (man, bug, drop, box, rod).

gum	man
milk	bug
hum	drop
hot	box
hat	rod

2. Tell the student that sometimes two bases can join to make multisyllable words. This means that the main meaning of the word is held in both the first and the second syllable. Use the word “bedbug” and ask the student to explain the meaning of each syllable and how they both hold part of the main meaning of the word.

3. Complete, the drill by asking the student to do the following things:

- read down all the Column #1 words.
- read down all the Column #2 words.
- read across each row (the words will be nonsense words)
- move around words in Column #2 to create real words (gumdrop, milkman, humbug, hatbox, hotrod).
- Discuss the meaning of each word with the student and ask the student to use each word in a sentence.

Do not show this picture until AFTER the student reads the story. If you show it before, you are teaching the student to guess at words based on the picture. We want to teach the student to use decoding skills.
